The Cafe and Restaurant, Looking West. Photo by Alexander Vertikoff.

© 2001 The J. Paul Getty Trust. All rights reserved

DRG ID: 2-5370-0372 FIRST

CLASS POSTAGE

J. Paul Getty inherited the fields Under his guidance they grew oil, money, art closely bargained, He offered creosote public toilets and after he was gone the Money bred itself, told the people to create a place that could stand against the pilin the air

From The Getty Center: A Panoramic Postcard Book, published by Chronicle Books.