it was designed by the last of the architects known as the Whites shaped by the settlers of Brentwood who were horrified by the idea of people looking down into their subdivision already set aside for the gods "make it lower, block the vista, clad the walls like Rome" they yelled and so white enameled steel the most boring kind of Modernism was crusted halfway up with travertine panels held on with clamps let it become ruin the clamps fail let some future builder find 14,000 tons of travertine
